Antinoos

Raspberry first, then benzoin under it after about an hour. Oud and frankincense by the evening. It's an oriental, so it sits heavier in cold air than in July.

The liquid is the cheapest part of it.

Nobody outside that company knows exactly what a €375 bottle costs to fill. What is not really in dispute is that the liquid is not most of €375. We spend ours on the oil, and the numbers are below if you want to check them.

MADE IN SWITZERLAND

Luxury fragrance without luxury theatre.

Kazaar develops fragrances in Switzerland with high perfume-oil concentrations and a simple idea: customers should pay for the scent itself, not expensive advertising and prestige retail margins.

BEFORE YOU BUY

Does it smell like the original? ^

Same accord, composed by us: raspberry, benzoin, oud, frankincense. Whether it reads as close depends a lot on your skin, and on which concentration you pick. About one in ten people tell us it does not work on them at all. We would rather you knew that before you opened it than after.
